

Diversity in the Workplace: The ABC's of the XYZ's

Welcome to the multi-generational environment! Now that we're all here, it's time to get to work on understanding each other. We are experiencing a historically unique era of generational diversity and this unprecedented integration provides a rich tapestry of backgrounds and style trends.

In the Baltimore-Washington area, we are working at a crossroads of cultural and generational diversity. Our unique national location provides a rich tapestry of backgrounds while our workforce spans four generations!

Opportunities afforded by this specific situation can often be overlooked as a result, not of negativity, but a lack of positivity. The advantages available to us can be offset by a passive acceptance of our differences.

Join Lisa and Dave as we discuss the benefits that a culture of diversity can bring to your organization and to your teams and ask if we are being proactive enough in our pursuit of high-performance teams.
