Sensitivity Training

Today's project management professional has pressures from all sides and success requires an environment that is open to input from everyone. Establishing a work environment that is conducive to creativity, innovation and motivation requires a continuous, proactive approach to diversity and inclusion. In this workshop, we will examine and discuss the values, biases, and emotions that can tear a team apart or lead to unparalleled success. It's all up to you!

Learning Objectives:
- Understand the meaning and importance of sensitivity and diversity in the workplace
- Learn to identify bias and ensure that it does not enter or impact the decision-making process
- Be able to discern harassment related behaviors and the proper situational responses
