

Business Ethics: Should I Be Working Here?

Are there moral absolutes? Is business ethics different than ethics? Should it be? Today's business leaders must have a firm grasp on the answers to these questions, not only because of increased legislative scrutiny, but because Business Ethics have become a strategic imperative! Is your workplace a great place to work? Does the ethos of the organization align with your portfolio of principles and values? If not, what are your options? Can you change the workplace culture? Join Lisa and Dave for a brief exploration of corporate social responsibility and how we can create workplaces that allow greatness to exist and thrive!

Learning Objectives:

- Understand the necessity of discussing and documenting organizational behavioral standards
- Learn to manage an adaptive culture that encourages creativity, communication, and collaboration